

bathing suit! Left, Long Beach; center, Newport; right, Anywhere. All lined by Muchette.

In the New York Battery Park Baths the ruling motive is to get thoroughly wet. It is a pool in which everybody wins. Styles are mostly of the clinging variety.

The New York street urchin has a profound contempt for clothes.

The ancient Hawaiian sport of riding the surf on a board is becoming popular in Atlantic shore resorts.

Likewise There Are Shown Embellishments by Muchette, By Which Nature Is the Gainer.

Summer Beach Styles—Afternoon gown of black silk, with white pencil stripes; black stockings, black shoes; parasol of white with black stripes. Cut short and draped without regard to bias.

Trying to fill the Delaware Water Gap.

This is the mate of the lone shark in the other corner. He or she is gnashing his or her teeth at the escape of a 15 to 1 shot. Merely Muchette.

you can claim a reward. From "The Musings of Muchette."

There is a man or a woman in the bathos of the